What's Happening...

Well the cold weather is finally here, I must say we totally enjoyed the extra warm days in November. We will continue to go outside during programming everyday when it is above 0 degrees, so it is important for the children to have all of their winter gear. It is also a good time to have a conversations about what you want the kids to have on, sometimes they don't want to wear all their things. What I tell the kids is what you came to school in is what you have to wear outside. It is ok to leave things in their locker. We will also except donations of winter gear for those who forget sometimes.

A few reminders & tips...

If school closes due to snow or cold, Minneapolis Kids closes as well.

We find it helpful for both students and staff if children's gear is labeled with their name or initials.

If you have a Kindergartener, practice getting snow-ready at home so they know what their stuff looks like and what order to put it on. We can assist them in getting geared up but there are many more of them than there are of us!

I will be having a temporary schedule change starting on Monday, November 28th. On Mondays and Wednesdays I will work at the main office in the Davis Center from 8:00-12:30 and afternoons at Bryn Mawr from 12:30-4:00. On Tuesday, Thursday and Friday I will be at the Davis Center from 8:00-4:00. Claudia and Aretha will hold down the site while I am at the Davis Center.

I will let you know the total of our penny drive when we get it all counted! Thanks for helping!
